Jail closing alarms state and county

BELLE GLADE—The closing of the Belle Glade City Jail on June 16 has alarmed county officials who have already been concerned about the overcrowding of the Palm Beach County Jail but the city commission made the decision seem final when they decided on the closure Monday night.

Ironically, the state, one of the two agencies getting more benefit from the jail than the city, is the cause for the decision to close the jail.

City Manager Robert Sanders recommended the closing Monday following an inspection of the facility by State Inspector Ted Keys, former state's attorney investigator at the county office building here.

Sanders said the recommendations made by Keys to bring the jail up to state standards, which included adding more personnel, monitoring prisoners who would be required to bathe twice a week and construction of a new fire escape, would cost the city tens of thousands of dollars more.

Sanders said the jail has housed a total of three bona fide city prisoners in the past month but there has been an average of more than 80 prisoners a day in that same time.

By agreement with the state and the county, the city jail is used as a holding facility with the state paying $5 per prisoner per day under a one-year contract and the county paying an increased fee of $10 per day.

But Sanders said the jail has still been running in the red and the commissioners decided to close it rather than require the taxpayers of Belle Glade to foot the bill for state and county prisoners.

"Belle Glade has bent over backwards and done more than its share," commented Palm Beach County State's Attorney David Bludworth when he heard about the decision Tuesday. "But we over here on the coast have failed."

Bludworth said county officials have known for years the county jail is overcrowded and that Belle Glade officials have wanted to close the city jail for the past 18 months, but nothing has been done.

"Three grand juries have told us the facilities we had were inadequate," he said, "and I've fought county commissioners past and present to provide adequate facilities. I'm afraid the closing of the Belle Glade jail will aggravate the situation."

Bludworth said he supported plans two years ago, which were eventually scrapped, to build a holding facility behind the Glades Office Building which would house prisoners, uncontrollable, mentally unbalanced people and violent juveniles. He said that was part of his plan to build a complete courthouse complex on Southern Boulevard west of the Florida Turnpike instead of a new county office building.

He noted that at least one county judge has already publicly stated he will no longer sentence, misdemeanor offenders to the county jail because of the overcrowded conditions.

"I asked the city and police chief (of Belle Glade) to keep the jails open," Bludworth said. "They've lived up to their responsibility for the past 18 months. Now it's up to us."

County Sheriff Richard Wille said he had just heard about the city commission's decision and the decision on whether to take over the jail's operation, which was part of motion to close the jail, will be up to the county commission.

"I intend to bring the matter up at the commission meeting next Tuesday," Wille said, "and see what they say. In the meantime, I'm meeting with a committee involved in prisoner facilities tomorrow (Wednesday) and hopefully a county-owned

Wildlife officer attacked

BELLE GLADE—A father and son ul seine fishing crew, were reated Monday for attacking one 22 wildlife officers who were brought in as a special task force to attempt to ease growing tensions between commercial and sports fishermen.

Detective Sgt. Harry Driggers of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office, said Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission officer Steve R. Blissett of Lakeland was attempting to cite Norman Padgett, 52, of West Palm Beach, and his son, Noah Padgett, 30, of East Trinidad Street in Clewiston, for fishing without a permit when the attack occurred.

Driggers said Blissett, operating alone, had drawn his boat alongside the Padgett boat between Kramer and Ritta Islands on Lake Okechobee and asked to see the fishermen's commercial fishing permit.

Blissett reported the two men told him they didn't have the permit with them and, after some words, stepped into their boat to write the citation.

Driggers said the elder Padgett spun Blissett around and grabbed his revolver and the younger man struck Blissett in the face, knocking him back into his own boat, then stepped into the officer's boat and began to beat him in the face before allowing his boat to drift off.

After his son stepped back into the trawl boat, Norman Padgett reportedly threw Blissett's weapon back into the officer's boat.

Lt. George Suttle and Sgt. Michael Mills, patrolling the lake in the Sheriff's Office Patrol Boat, answered Blissett's radio call for assistance, along with Wildlife Officers Randy Wiggins and Dave Thompson.

The two fishermen were charged with failure to produce their fishing permits on demand, battery on a police officer and resisting arrest with violence. They posted bonds of $1,000 each

Star Child's Skunk Ape, JFO saga stirs suspicion

BELLE GLADE—Star Child said he's already run into some Deabting Thomases but swears he, Scat Cat, Super Bee and Bootsie are telling the truth about sighting an Unidentified Flying Object and a Skunk Ape within minutes of each other Monday morning.

The three Belle Glade die jockeys and their woman friend failed to report, however, any sign of the Second Coming.

Star Child, who says he's usually known as Willie James Silvers, Bobby Lee Turner, Bobby McCoy and Tony "Bootsie" Collins, were in Immokalee Sunday night doing a disco show and were on their way back to Belle Glade when their van broke down on SR 29 about 10 miles south of LaBelle at 2:30 a.m.

"We first saw the light a few minutes after the van broke down," Silvers said. "At first, it was sort of dim but it would come closer and get brighter then we'd turn the van lights on, it would get dimmer and further away."

"It kept swooping in closer and then backing off and circling around," he said, "and it looked like it wanted to land. Sometimes it got so bright it liked to have blinded us in the eyes. This kept happening until just before 7:30. That's when we saw the Skunk Ape."

Silvers said the group had decided to leave the van and hike toward LaBelle and they'd gotten only about 20 yards from the van when "Bootsie" called the others' attention ahead of them.

"I looked up," Silvers said, "and the Skunk Ape was about 30 yards ahead of us. It was seven or eight feet tall and black and had hair all over it. It crossed the road in about three steps and we turned around and ran back to the van."

Silvers said, however, the group could find no tracks later in the morning then they returned to where they'd seen the creature.

He said he had already left the van again to try to find help when a fellow die jockey, who was looking for them, drove by and spotted the van about 11 a.m.

"I told the man we were working for about it," Silvers said, "and he didn't believe us, but this really happened. It's the truth. I wouldn't be about something like this."

BELLE GLADE—The legal right of the U.S. Department of Labor to make a number of proposed changes in requirements for employing foreign sugar cane cutters was questioned Tuesday in a hearing here by Fred Sikes, former vice president in charge of personnel for the U.S. Sugar Corporation.

The two-day hearing, held Tuesday and Wednesday at the Agricultural Research and Education Center by the DOL, was one of a series of hearings in West Virginia, Colorado, Massachusetts and New York which could effect the use of alien labor to harvest crops.

The seven rules changes involved the extension from 60 days to 90 days for the minimum time employers must seek domestic workers before being allowed certification to import labor; a guaranteed 40-hour work week; the requirement that employers must submit a recruitment plan, if this is the third request for foreign workers in three consecutive years, to cut down the future use of alien workers; a denial of foreign worker certification if the employer has used illegal aliens or violated the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act in the past 12 months; an increase in the amount employers are able to charge workers for meals per day, up to $3.25 a day; provision of housing for men and women; and for family groups for any U.S. workers recruited and inclusion of sheep herders within the current regulations.

Sikes and two other speakers concentrated their fire on the 90 day rule and the demand for a plan to reduce future alien recruitment, designed to eliminate the possibility of importing labor whether or not there are U.S. workers available.

Sikes said the determination of whether temporary workers shall be admitted is vested by statute in the Attorney General of the United States, not the DOL.

An attorney himself, Sikes quoted the statute as reading the DOL is only authorized to state whether qualified persons in the United States are available and whether the employment of aliens will adversely affect the wages and working conditions of workers in the United States similarly employed.

"It should be clearly understood," Sikes argued, "that the authority of the Department to establish and promulgate reasonable and relevant standards by which it tests 'availability' and 'adverse affect' is not in controversy."

But the proposed regulations in very substantive respects fail the test of "reasonable" and "relevant," transcending the outer limits of its authority and to that extent, and in those respects, are invalid."

Sikes said the provision for a plan on future recruitment practices, "reaches into a totally

First to vote

THEY WERE FIRST when students at Christian Day School went to the polls to elect the student council officers for the coming year and found themselves the first voters in the Glades to try the new Votomatic election system. GDS teacher Liz Canonici demonstrates how the computerized polling works to an eighth grade class. Students voting said the system was easier than the old style voting machines they've used in the past and Principal Ray Stedham said the 192 votes were counted in just under ten minutes. Who won? One is still trying to get into the New York Symphony, another is doing well in insurance, and there's one that just got out of jail. I guess it was just a typical class reunion.

Ten years have gone by since the 64 members of the Tyertown High School Class of '67 walked down the auditorium steps, happily flipping cap tassels as we shook hands with the principal and grabbed the diploma.

The turnout for our first-ever class reunion was good and like millions of other classes that have met in the past, we renewed old friendships and took pledges to keep closer in touch in the coming years.

But unlike ten years ago, we were forced to wear little-name tags telling who we were. Memories faded in ten years and faces change. Hair falls out. Thin folks become fat. People change.

Yes, people do change. One of the classmates, voted most likely to succeed, and graduated with honors from one of the country's most notable engineering schools, built nothing more than a cabin in the woods where he sits and drinks in solitude.

But he's the exception. Most of the others have gone on in the normal American way: getting married, finding a job they tolerate if not like very much, paying taxes, and raising their children.

At least one served time for running marijuana, his father's generation had those who served time for running shine. There are always those in each generation who seek to get ahead along the paths of least resistance and effort. One, the hippy of the class, very vocal against the Vietnam war in the late sixties and early seventies, now is clean-shaven and running his own business. His mania for social issues now fades in the realism of earning a living for himself, his wife, and their three children.

Instead of participating in demonstrations which sometimes turned as violent as the war he was against, he now exercises useful, real power, the power of casting his ballot at the polls.

The Class of 1967 is light years from what we all envisioned when we were young. We are now Middle Class America, for the most part. We feel we are leading constructive, rewarding lives and raising our children to follow in our footsteps.

We all wanted to set the world afire with our ideas and ideals, but found many of those paths blocked by realism. Ideas are fine and some we stood for have become accepted. Others have been cast aside when we found them to be completely unworkable.

Where our fathers lived through the trying times of World I or II and Korea, we lived through the even more difficult times of Vietnam. A country divided. Some bear scars yet of that division.

Our youth served its purpose. It sought change and won some battles. Now, our adulthood is serving its purpose. It is resisting some of the changes the youths of today seek to initiate.

We have become like our parents: our children see our parents like we saw our grandparents. And that's the order of things.

People change. And it's well they do. It's a natural system of checks and balances more workable than the three departments of government.

Opinion

'I TOLD YOU TO CLEAR IT WITH THE ISRAELIS, BUT NO... YOU HAD TO PROMISE THE PALESTINIANS A HOMELAND...'

Put in two cents worth

Dear Mr. Jones:

Earlier this year I solicited views on what various members of the public considered important topics for the 1978 constitutional revision process. The responses I received were very informative and will certainly assist in my role on the Constitution Revision Commission. Since the responses have been received, I have attempted to identify the key topics and issues that appear to be pertinent to the revision process. I have sent over 900 questionnaires to various Floridians in an effort to receive input from a broad cross-section of the state population. The response has been very rewarding but it is only a small portion of the people. I believe that this input prior to the people voting on the revision is essential if the Commission is to truly reflect the public will.

Your participation in this process would greatly enhance its success. Publication of the enclosed questionnaire in your newspaper would provide exposure to a significant segment of Florida's population. Placement of the questionnaire in the hands of your readers with directions to send it to this Office would provide each person an opportunity to participate in the revision process.

In Part I, the readers should check the topics they consider to be the five most important broad categories that the Constitution Revision Commission should address. In Part II, the readers should check the three issues within each category that they believe are the most important for the Constitution Revision Commission to consider. All categories within Part II should be marked regardless of whether they select that category in Part I.

The Commission will, in all likelihood, convene in June, 1978. It is my intention to provide the commission with a report on the present constitution and to recommend that certain issues be addressed by the Commission. I would like to incorporate the responses to the questionnaires as part of the issue identification process for the Commission's consideration. I appreciate your cooperation in this effort to assure all Floridians the opportunity to make recommendations for inclusion in Florida's revised constitution.

Sincerely,
ATTORNEY GENERAL

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

I've noticed that over the past couple of weeks, a couple of newspapers in the state have been raking Congress over the coals for the extra little goodies they've set up for themselves.

Guess our national leaders don't think that pay fike they vote themselves (I tried that but Son didn't buy it) was enough to let the just couldn't do without the perks.

I never have begrudged anyone getting what's coming to him and I'll have to admit, the little services the senators and Congressmen are able to pick up around Capitol Hill are sure nice little inflation busters.

I realize, for instance, that I pay Skinner $3 bucks a whack every 5 days, regardless of what he says about it not being often enough but Skipper's price, for some reason, doesn't include a razor cut, hair styling and a shampoo.

And when was the last time Skipper or any other barberhop in Tallahassee offered a 25 cent shoe shine?

Come to think of it. Where can you go around town to scarf up on a princely fillet of sole dinner, in a place that has a complete kitchen with stained glass windows no less for the pauperish price of $2.70.

Not to worry though, if you can't find something like that on the muck, all you have to do is head up to Washington, grab hold of the coat tails of your favorite Senator and head for the Senate dining room.

And why not? It's your tax dollars, several hundred thousand a year, that subsidize the eatery. The question is answered, of course, by the fact the guards won't let John Q. Public in unless he's the personal guest of one of the Senators.

I've heard the U.S. Senate never goes to as the most exclusive club in the world but this is ridiculous.

It's just a minor part of the whole ball of wax, though. Wonder if the U.S. Capitol Police force is larger than the departments of a heckuva lot of cities a darn sight bigger than Bogalusa?

Or if Ken Turner's bunch over at the Post Office here know about the Capitol's own Post Office, where something over a hundred postal clerks pull down $12,000 a year salaries for 28-hour work weeks.

Guess what jobs in Washington are filled strictly on a patronage basis? But don't forget to tack on the positions of clerks and secretaries and other various aides in the Congressional offices.

No need to get upset, either. The good ole boys in Congress have already decided they'd take a few steps toward ethics as long as things don't get out of hand. All

No need to get upset, either. The good ole boys in Congress have already decided they'd take a few steps toward ethics as long as things don't get out of hand. All part of the "reform" movement.

Like the law passed against nepotism that doesn't do a thing about keeping a fellow Congressman from being your deadbeat brother-in-law and if the law is violated openly by a Representative hiring his daughter, who's going to say anything?

Probably the same people who wouldn't say anything about the Senator using the Congressional research service to write the theme papers that got his daughter through college.

Or the same group of people noted primarily for a deafening silence when the Georgia peanut farmer pays a 26-year old former reporter $48,500 a year as an assistant press agent. (I always did think "press secretary" was a bit too high falutin' title for the job.)

Or maybe it'll be the same people who so silently protested the $54,000 salary paid Fritz Mondak to press agent. Whoop! $1,000 a week. That ain't bad bread for an image-maker.

Just goes to show nobody's keeping tabs, or nobody cares, about how much a lot of people in the 550-person White House staff gets paid either. That and it's just one more proof that RHIP (rank has its privileges for those who've never been through boot camp).

But it sure is comforting to know our leaders are taken care of. Never mind out Fearless Leader promised to cut back on the White House operating expenses.

And it sure is comforting to know the guy mist is getting closer and more responsive to the people.

Harvey Mathews...

This is your life!

BELLE GLADE—Retiring City Water Treatment Plant Director Harvey Mathews may have felt he was the man of the hour at his own retirement dinner Friday night at the Municipal Country Club as fellow employees put him through a down-home Dean Martin style roast.

"Harvey Mathews," Emcee Ron Snyder said, "was born in Hector, Ark. in 1909...or 10...or 11...or 12. Who knows? Take your pick."

"We who work with Harvey," Snyder said, "know him as a shy, quiet, retiring gentleman who doesn't say much but Ol' Ratchet Jaw is leaving next month for Alaska," and the roast was on.

Roy Polling said some people have reported seeing "mud clouds" forming over Lake Okeechobee when Mathews was checking the city's raw water intake.

Sam Humphries said "the Right Reverend Harvey Mathews of the Church of the Holy Water" had brought religion into the Public Works Department, "and I thank him for showing us Playboy doesn't have anything on Genesis. We'll miss you and your Bible Can Be Fun" messages.

She said that even though Mark Patton had earned the title of Deacon under Mathews' tutelage, he still needs guidance and urged Mathews to return to the city occasionally.

Charles Goodlett said that when he'd been told about ten years ago to find out what was happening to the gasoline that kept disappearing from the city garage, he discovered Mathews was getting ten gallons a week from the city to take water samples from Lake Okeechobee.

"And I've spent years trying to catch Harvey taking water samples on the Lake," he said, "but all I've been able to catch him at was fishing. When he leaves the city next month, I'm going to mark the file on this case closed and recommend to the city manager we donate ten gallons of gas to send him on his way to Alaska."

Betty Jean Myers said when she'd been asked to say something at Mathews' retirement dinner, her mind was "blank as Mr. Mathews' invoices." She said she'd gotten along well with Mathews over the year but wound up telling him, "You don't have a recreation account."

Ron Sigmon presented Mathews with a citizens band radio and said it would be installed before Mathews' trip to Alaska, suggesting he call himself Driftwood, Chief Drip, Aquaman or Low Pressure Harv.

Mayor Kirk presented the retiree with a gold watch inscribed, "In appreciation, City of Belle Glade, 1951-1977."

And Ross Allen, Mathews' replacement in the water department, presented him with two jars of water one treated and one untreated, "and I'll let you decide which is which."

Mathews said there was a time when there wouldn't have been any doubt because the treated water was as cloudy as the untreated water.

"I'm not really leaving Belle Glade," he told the audience of city employees and friends, "because my wife has already told me if I leave, I was going to have to leave by myself and I've done gotten too old to make my own bed and fix my coffee."

HARVEY MATHEWS (center) who is retiring from his position as director of the Belle Glade Water Treatment Plant, was treated to a roast Friday night. Seeing him off are Mayor Ralph Kirk, City Manager Robert Sanders, his wife, Mrs. Flo Etta Mathews, and Public Works Director Ron Sigmon.

New PBJC placement tests are set up

A new self-administered, self-scoring placement testing program has been designed by the Palm Beach Junior College Testing Center, according to Donald W. Cook, director of testing, PBJC.

"We had to come up with a new program after the Florida Legislature eliminated the Statewide Twelfth Grade Placement Test last year," Cook explained.

Several options were studied over the past year before the decision was made to accept what Cook calls "a different philosophy in testing."

Under the new program, the student will pick up the tests from his high school guidance office, take them home, complete them and return them to the college on the day of his registration appointment.

The concept of the self-administered test is not new, Cook said. Seminole Community College, on whose testing program we based ours, has been using this type of testing for three years.

Students planning to attend PBJC for day classes must present their letter of acceptance to the college in order to receive the packet; those planning to attend evening classes will not need a letter. The tests will also be available at all four campuses, Cook said.

Packets will be mailed to out of county and out of state students. The philosophy of this program is that the student determines where his strengths and weaknesses are, and he not the college, makes decision relative to his education, Cook continued.

A question he's often asked, Cook says is: "How do you know the student will not cheat on the tests?"

The testing director claims this is not his concern, "because the tests are designed to help the student evaluate his abilities, and if he cheats, he's only cheating himself."

"After all, it's his education; while we are ready and willing to assist all students, we really want the student to take the responsibility for his education, and we hope that this attitude will carry over into the classroom," Cook said. The packet contains three tests, Reading, English and Math, — the latter developed by the PBJC Math Department, headed by Mrs. Ruth Wing — answer sheets, a test evaluation card, and a letter of explanation from Cook.

The tests do not have to be taken all at once, Cook explained; however once started they should be completed, and students must time themselves.

Students place results of the tests, on the evaluation card, which will suggest which courses the student should take; however, the student makes the final decision.

The entire placement packet,

Cook repeated, must be returned to the college at registration. The tests were printed by the college Print Shop.

PALM BEACH JUNIOR COLLEGE DEANS LIST

A total of 377 students made the Dean's list at Palm Beach Junior College in the Winter Term, 35 more than in the Fall Term.

In order to be eligible for the list during the Fall and Winter terms at P.B.J.C., a student must carry at least 15 credit hours with a 3.0 (B), or better average.

Eight students from the Glades were among those in the list. Among them are Cheryl L. Rice, Eula R. Robinson, Elizabeth C. Smith, and Maria Isabel of Belle Glade.

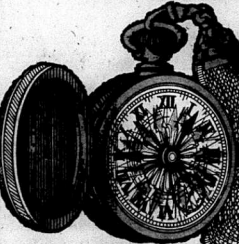

E. James Miller, of South Bay; Mary L. Brantley of Clewiston; Rebecca S. Bush, and Laurel L. Tarr of Pahokee.

YEAR END SALE!

THE BEST OF THE BRIGHTEST at Glades Central High School for this year are salutatorian Paula Lockett and valedictorian Gassandra Swain, the two girls who posted the highest marks in the 1977 senior class. GCHS graduation exercises take place at 7 p.m. June 10 at Memorial Stadium. Staff Photo

Were test results really that bad?

PAHOKEE—Results of the Adult Performance Level Test given to High School juniors in April showed that 33% of Pahokee High School juniors who took the test failed it, a seemingly large percentage of failures. However, when various factors relating to the individuals who failed the test are compared, the results do not appear to be so bad. After Pahokee High School guidance counselors obtained such data as IQ's, scores on achievement tests and absentee rates, they got a pretty good idea why there was such a high rate of failure, among their students. For one thing, they found that four of the students who failed to pass 60% of the test items were classified as "Educably Mentally Retarded (EMR)"; three of those being black and one white. Of those students, Guidance Counselor Vance Danton said, one girl scored high in one or two areas but low in the others. This showed that she could comprehend the instructions but she was lacking in knowledge in the areas she failed. But overall it seemed to be a reading problem for those who failed. Observations have been made that perhaps the school system is at fault, not only in Pahokee but in other schools. But these students who are classified as EMR are expected to pass a test that's designed for those who are not educably mentally retarded.

Council gives Crosbys time for corrections

PAHOKEE—The City Council voted in favor of Mr. Ronnie Crosby in abandoning a road within his trailer park and voted to allow Mr. R.O. Crosby, Sr. to get his condemned building up to city standards within 30 days, although Building Inspector Phelix Slonaker made it clear that he strongly disagreed with the council's actions. Ronnie Crosby told the council that the city had previously voted to abandon SW 6th and SW 7th Streets and they wanted to abandon SW 4th Ave., but, at the time, he was opposed to the abandoning. However, Crosby said he has decided that the road is not really a necessary street for the trailer park and thus he would like the council to consider abandoning that street also. Inspector Slonaker told the Council that the City could not abandon a street in a trailer park, but Attorney Ralph Johnson disagreed, stating his opinion that the city can abandon the street. Councilman Curtis Miners stated that Crosby has a trailer parked there illegally and that he (Crosby) "asked me to hold Phelix (Slonaker) off until tonight." Attorney Johnson said that the trailer would still be parked there illegally until he gets an amended trailer park permit. Slonaker stated that the trailer was at least three or four feet from city lines and it was not covering a manhole, as Mrs. Betty McCoy, City Clerk had been told. Nevertheless, Crosby assured Council that if the trailer was parked over a manhole, it would be moved. McKinstry's motion to abandon the street with a utility easement put in place of it was passed. Mr. Slonaker maintained that the action was a violation of the city code. "If you councilmen want to run my job, you can do that, too," he told them.

Crosby was allowed to leave his trailer where it is parked until he can get an amended park permit from the county. If it is not approved by the county, the trailer will have to be moved. Mr. R.O. Crosby, Sr. approached the Council on the condemnation of his building located at 283 Daniel Pl., which he told Miss Cummings he could repair and bring up to city codes. When asked by Councilman Noma Norman if he and others are given proper notice in time to correct the problems, Mr. Crosby replied with a definite no. "If you condemn this piece of property, you can easily condemn 60% of the buildings in Pahokee," Mr. Crosby said. Councilman Robert Welty stated that proper procedure should be followed - that Mr. Crosby should go before a review board of Palm Beach County, not the Council, since the building has already been condemned by a city authority. And "I strongly object to this drift of conversation," Welty said. He continued, "If you're afraid to take it before the board, you must be afraid it won't pass...they should make the decision on whether it's right or not." Slonaker said that the building was over 50% deteriorated, "strictly due to neglect," that the piling was bad, the walls had been plastered over wood and that they were eaten out by termites and the building had shifted a foot. Council agreed, upon the motion of Miners, to allow Mr. Crosby to continue to repair the building for whatever Mr. Slonaker says is wrong with it and the action be completed within 30 days. The motion passed with Welty voting no. Miners, W.E. McKinstry and Miss Cummings voting yes and Norman abstaining since he could get no legal opinion knows what-all that's being very much abused.

I don't use names unless the person authorizes me to, but this restaurant owner says: "Had a cook who demanded more than $3.25 an hour and said she could get that much by going home and taking care of her kids, drawing it out of the government. So I lost her. I had to say: 'If you can do it, do it. I can't blame you. I can't pay you anymore.'"

At the employment office, they said: "We have many, many jobs open, but we're not getting anybody in here. They go draw their unemployment checks rather than work. You ought to see the able-bodied young men here able to work, but they don't want to." Guess I'm just a jerk. Been working or in school since I was nine years old. Don't know any better. But I do have something called pride. False pride? I don't know, but it works to make my own way.

From Belle Glade, Alverto M. Recio, BBA degree in finance and Maria A. Rivas, BBA degree in finance.

some things this weekend so you be seeing me with my little camera around...why aren't I going to the FPA convention...because can't stand to be around so much luxury, drink and food...it would blow my mind...couldn't take it...speaking of the FPA convention you do know the difference between a drunk and an alcoholic don't you? Minding the Store

BY ANDY CAMPANARO

Of course, Florida First National Bank is happy that they have a really life-like large picture of sugar cane fields burning by Jeanette Cameron, for their second floor board room, but by it being in the board room, we visitors are going to miss it. And I wouldn't have missed it for the world.

This is my place to editorialize and I don't do it very often, but I must say that is more than a picture. You can almost feel the heat and smell the smoke. Using every reference they taught me (or tried to teach me) in school regarding art - perspective, outline, linear definition, color blending, reality of colour - well, it's simply outstanding.

If I may poke my nose in your business, Mr. Turnbull, why not display it in the lobby for a time? And, Ms. Cameron, I've admired your work before, but you've outdone yourself this time.

The new gunsmith in Pahokee certainly knows his craft. He's got several unique pieces on display now...that's right at Thompson's Garage on Main Street where the new feed store opened...the two business are in the same building.

Also in Pahokee, the new Rose Petal shop has fantastic location and the sign is catching coming in from Belle Glade. Seems there's no standing sign ordinance in either Belle Glade, South Bay or Pahokee, but it hasn't seemed to be needed. Most merchants don't try to be garish and keep their outside advertisements in good taste.

Talked to the Florida State Employment office and a local restaurant owner (and some others over the past few months) and they're saying the same thing. They're saying that what kills private businesses of ALL types in the Glades is lack of trained and willing help. Seems there's something called (1) food stamps; (2) aid to dependent children; (3) social security and (4) heaven

Games will be played throughout the summer on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday of each week. The teams in the league this year are: Foodway, Lee & Hilyer, First Baptist Church, Chem Air Spray, Hattion Brothers, P.P.I., Union 76, and Wedgworth. The public is cordially invited to attend the games and support their favorite team.

The season opener featured Foodway against Lee & Hilyer. Lee & Hilyer jumped off to an early lead in the first inning scoring four runs on hits by Branham, Frazier, Clements, and Walker. Five more runs were added in the fifth on seven hits, one of them a homerun by Walker. Lee & Hilyer had a total of 13 runs on 16 hits. Foodway's two runs were scored in the fourth and seventh innings with a total of five hits for the game. Skip Lanham had two hits for Foodway with Parrish, O. Echave, and Dunnaway each getting one hit.

The second game had First Baptist Church overpowering Chem Air by 13-3. The game started slow and the score was tied 1-1 at the end of the second inning. Chem Air took the lead in the third with hits by Miller, Abner and Britt. F.B.C. again tied the game in the fourth at 3-3. Five runs were scored in both the fifth and sixth innings to put the game away for F.B.C. Abner led Foodway with two hits with Diaz, Miller, Britt, Barnes and Graham each getting a single.

Tuesday night's games were P.P.I. vs. Hattion Bros. and Wedgworth vs. Union 76. Hattion Bros. was held scoreless and a double by Donnie Hilyer was their solo hit. P.P.I. accumulated a total of 22 runs on 21 hits. T. Butler, P. Rodriguez, and Henniger each had fair hits for the winners, Mills and Schmidt each had two hits, with one hit each for Curtiss, Sullivan, Mitch Crissman, T. Rodriguez and J. Echave. T. Butler and Mills each put one over the homerun fence.

Wedgworth stunned last year's league champion, Union 76, with a surprising 35-4 win. Wedgworth displayed solid hitting strength with 36 hits, 17 of which were in the fifth inning. Bill Miller went six for six for the winners, backed up by Tom King and Gary Bradshaw, each with six hits in seven trips to the plate. Tom King homered three times; Burkett and Bradshaw twice each, and Huff, Mark Crissman, and Buckner each added one homerun.

Union had nine hits, one being bases clean homerun by Jimmy Herring, who went three for three for Union. Other hits for Union were by Salvatore, Lin Gillis, Garry Gillis, Milliron, Douglas, and Lampi.

FBC squeezed out a 7-6 win over Foodway in Thursday's first game on 13 hits. Foodway had a total of nine hits, with one homerun by Lanham.

Lee & Hilyer scored a victory over Chem Air in the second game by 11-6. Homeruns were by R. Huff (two) and W. Lee. Chem Air had a total of seven hits.

BELLE GLADE—Bass, Speck and Bluegill fishermen reorted action in the Belle Glade area over the weekend with most catches coming in on artificial bait.

The pepper grass beds off Kreamer Island produced most of the Bass while specks were still being taken in the rim canal, especially in the Tree Island area.

On Wednesday, Doug Clark and Jim Spires of Pahokee used Hot Spots in the Kreamer Island area to take 20 nice bass with two going almost seven pounds each.

Richard Whitman used plastic worms in the pepper grass beds on Saturday to take five bass to five pounds each.

Belle Glade fisherman Al Proper and W. W. Ward of Ft. Lauderdale used plastic worms on Saturday to take 10 bass to 7½ pounds.

Stan Whitlock, manager of the Belle Glade campground, used live shiners on Saturday and reported a catch of seven bass.

David Moore and Mike McCormick tried the Pelican Bay area on Friday and came in with 100 Bluegills and shellcrackers taken on black and yellow Beetle Spots. Frank Blocker and Lee Arden of Fort Lauderdale continue to bring in limits of Speckled Perch every Friday and Saturday.

Kenny McIntosh used plastic worms on Sunday to take his limit of bass.

Commissioners reject renaming airport petition

BELLE GLADE—The City Commission rejected a petition Monday night to name the Belle Glade Airport after the late George Summers but set a precedent by ordering a marker erected at the facility in honor of Summers.

The petition first came before the commission two weeks ago but the commission delayed action until a recommendation could be heard from the Airport Advisory Committee.

As of Monday night, the committee had still voiced no opinion but at a motion by Commissioner Tom Altman, the commission directed City Attorney John Baker to draft a resolution commending Summers for his contributions to the airport.

Later in the meeting, Altman said that instead of naming public buildings and facilities after persons, which he and Mayor Ralph Kirk both said they didn't approve on principle, the commission could erect markers at appropriate spots in the city.

At Altman's motion, the city administration was directed to explore the possibilities of such markers.

The commission also voted to use an extra $4,000 of the approximately $100,000 recreational surplus funds in the upcoming summer recreation program.

City Recreational Director Johnny Rutledge said he was asking for the extra funds to help pay supervisors at the schools in the city where a good part of the program is taking place.

"It's the same program we've had for the past three years," Rutledge said, "but we've been running in the red all those years. The schools won't let us use their facilities unless we hire their people as supervisors at $4 an hour."

In other business, the commission also agreed to allow Palm Beach County Supervisor of Elections Jackie Winchester to use the Municipal Civic Center for the polling place for precincts 97 and 114 in the 1978 elections.

The precinct polling places have traditionally been in the Glades Central High School gymnasium but Mrs. Winchester said she is being required by a state law to provide polling places at sites where handicapped people can get in. The steps to the gym wouldn't allow a wheelchair to be used.

Mrs. Winchester also acknowledged the commission's request two weeks ago to move the precinct 99 polling place from Lake Shore Middle School to the Lake Shore Civic Center, which is being renovated and added to. Mrs. Winchester also notified the commission she was sending out several demonstrator models of the new Votomatic polling machines to help educate the citizens of Belle Glade on how to use the computerized voting machines which will be used in the upcoming city elections and later general elections.

XI IOTA CHAPTER OF THE BETA SIGMA PHI
BELLE GLADE—"What You Were Wearing When The Boat Sank" was the theme of a fun pool side party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Cameron.

Xi Iota Alpha Chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi held their final social of the season on Saturday, May 21. Enjoying the delicious food and good time at the Camerons were: Mr. and Mrs. Lee Burke, Dr. and Mrs. Cecil Conley, Dr. and Mrs. Joe Crockett, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Fields, Mrs. Mary Rose Gartner, Mr. Ben Clarke, Dr. and Mrs. Diego Gimenez, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Harris, Mr. and Mrs. James Humphrey, Mrs. Bertha La Chance, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Painter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roessing and Mr. and Mrs. Robert White.

The Lord is my shepherd

The 23rd Psalm is one of the most familiar chapters in the Bible. Early in life, most of us have committed it to memory. Every once in a while we should go back to these verses and think of the wonderful message of faith and trust in God that they reveal to us. They show us that we have a loving Father, one who will show us the right paths; one who will protect and provide for us. These scriptures end with a note of thanksgiving and a promise.

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

Plan to start a regular worship in the Lord's house.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for men to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long endure, and individuals who hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Eternal vigilance is the Price of Liberty

★ Wendell Phillips 1852 ★

Now aptly these first few lines of the beautiful prayerful song describe much of our task.

In some areas, just before the harvest, amber waves of grain stretch as far as the eye can see, and with a brisk breeze blowing, the scene looks like a vast golden ocean. In other areas, one can travel mile after mile with fields of tall green corn along both sides of the road. And in yet other areas one finds mile after mile of orchards. Here the beautifully colored borders of fruit land true limbs to the ground. What breath-taking sights to behold!

America, America! What a wonderful and productive land in which to live!

"God shed His grace on this" should be the continuing prayer of us all, lest through our laziness, carelessness and apathy we spoil this wonderful land beyond redemption.

after objections made to commission

Osceola deannexation delayed

BELLE GLADE—A move to deannex the Belle Glade Housing Authority's Osceola Center from the city ground to a temporary halt Monday night when City Commissioner William Grear asked several questions and citizens came forward to protest the move.

The deannexation ordinance came up for a final reading during the regular commission meeting and would have beaten out an attempt to get a temporary injunction to stop the move but Grear's action removed the urgency of the deadline.

Deannexation takes a unanimous, 5-0 vote by the commission and although Grear voted for the deannexation on the first reading of the ordinance on May 9, he voiced strong objections Monday night.

At the suggestion of Commissioners Aubrey Farmer and Tom Altman, action on the ordinance was postponed until the commission meeting to be held June 27.

Between the first and final readings of the ordinance, however, Florida Rural Legal Services attorney Steve Converse said a suit was filed by FRLS on behalf of Elmore Edgings, House #72 in Osceola Center.

Converse said Monday he was expecting a ruling on the request for a temporary injunction from Circuit Judge Robert S. Hewitt but as of Wednesday morning, the judgment still hadn't been delivered.

The hearing on the injunction was held in Hewitt's court Friday. Converse said he was arguing the city had failed to follow the prescribed procedures and that the move didn't meet the criteria required to deannex property.

Specifically, Converse said the city had not advertised the deannexation for four weeks prior to the action. (The notice for the boundary changes were published in The Belle Glade Herald on April 28 and May 5, 12, and 19.)

Converse also said, however, the city failed to meet criteria set forth in state law.

He explained the criteria for annexation calls for the area to be annexed must be urban development, contiguous to the city boundary and populated by more than two persons per acre.

Converse said the law also says, however, that to deannex property, it must first to meet the above criteria and he said Osceola Center certainly meets the criteria.

Monday night, FRLS attorney Michael Masinter spoke to the commission but said he wasn't arguing legalities, that he and City Attorney John Baker have already argued those and were waiting for the results.

"And I certainly wouldn't presume to advise you," Masinter said. "Mr. Baker is more than qualified to do that. I ask you to reject this ordinance because it isn't right."

This document is approved," he said, "it's going to appear to all the world it's been approved to keep the blacks in Osceola Center from voting in city elections."

He pleaded with the commission to "allow the blacks who have moved into Osceola Center to continue to live there and enjoy all the rights and privileges of city residents."

Another person asking the city to reject the deannexation request by the Housing Authority was Jerry Roberts, who said he spoke as a private citizen rather than in his capacity as investigator for FRLS.

Roberts said he felt it would be a better idea to leave Osceola Center within the city limits and annex Okeechobee Center as well, a request which has been made several times in the past five years.

"I would like to think you regard the people living in Osceola Center as poor people, not black white or Chicano," Roberts said. Poor people in the past have had to give up the right to vote to get good low-cost housing.

Roberts asked the commissioners if they were going to wait until some time in the future to be forced to undo what they were considering doing Monday night.

"I'd like to think Belle Glade is going to grow considerably past Osceola Center," Roberts said. "I would also like to know how much it would cost the city to continue to service the area."

One of the reasons given for deannexing the housing project is the cost of supplying city services while receiving no taxes.

Roberts also asked what would happen when the city limits are expanded to the point they envelope, the housing center.

Mayor Ralph Kipk said the commission "will cross that bridge when we come to it."

Commissioner Tom Altman said that, in his opinion, there would come a time when it would cost more to bypass the center than to include it in the city limits but that time isn't now.

Grear's main objections during the meeting were that he wasn't sure a letter received from the Housing Authority actually came from the Authority, that there was at least one member of the Authority who was unfamiliar with what the Authority was requesting since he has been appointed since the original request was made in 1975, and he hadn't had time to study a list of reasons drawn up and distributed by City Attorney John Baker on why the city should deannex the property.

Altman said if there was any doubt about a full understanding of the issues by any member of the Authority, or any commissioners, the matter should be delayed.

and operated holding facility will be one of our top priorities.

"Obviously," he said, "we're going to have to do something and I'm actively pursuing a jail facility in the Glades."

In the meantime, Captain Claude Tindall, who heads the sheriff's office Glades sub-section, said the city jail will have to be operated by the county and/or state or the sheriff's office will begin incurring a vastly expanded transportation expense by having to take all county prisoners to West Palm Beach.

William Beardsley, chief prison inspector for the Department of Offender Rehabilitation said from Tallahassee Wednesday he isn't sure if the state has ever made such an agreement with any city in the past or if such negotiations are even possible.

Beardsley noted the state is using the city jail as a transfer point only but, like Wille and Bludworth, said some type of arrangements would certainly have to be made.

South Bay Police Chief Willie Wisper said Tuesday night he hadn't heard of the decision to close the jail but said it would mean he would either have to transport his prisoners to the Glades Office Building or directly to West Palm Beach.

Pahokee Police Chief Carmen Salvatore III said he is still operating a 20-person capacity jail but, "I don't intend to maintain state and county prisoners."

Salvatore said he would like to see the county open up a jail facility in the Glades.

Under Article V of the state constitution, which became effective Jan. 3, cities are no longer responsible for housing prisoners, which are now supposed to be the responsibility of the sheriff.

WORKERS

different area which no twisted or tortuous reasoning or rationale can make relevant to, or cast any light upon, either present "availability" or "adverse affect."

"The requirement for submitting such a plan," he said, "relates to plans which are concerned with future recruitment programs...and is absurd on its face."

"Actually," he continued, "what we anticipate resulting from the so-called recruitment plan is an annual requirement by the DOL that employers of foreign labor must continually offer more and more wages, benefits, guarantees and working conditions in an effort to attract American workers—exactly what the DOL acknowledged in the Andrew Williams case was not authorized."

Sikes said the proposed recruitment plan, "is totally unauthorized and illegal" and went on to say the fact is that while farm wages have steadily increased over the past 20 years, the number of farm workers has decreased.

"But what is now quite evident," he said, "is that the purpose of the proposed regulations is not to propose additional safeguards, but to bring the admission of seasonal alien labor to a grinding halt."

Among other speakers were Dennis Emerson of Florida Farm Bureau, who said the 90 day required period to recruit domestic labor before certification is granted is totally unacceptable, saying it doesn't give the growers enough time.

Warren Capote, a citrus contractor from LaBelle, agreed and both he and Emerson suggested that instead of putting more red tape in the way of getting foreign labor, there should be some consideration of re-introducing the so-called bracero program which was ended in 1964.

Capote and Emerson argued that extensive unemployment and welfare benefits make the hard work of harvesting crops unattractive to domestic workers. Emerson pointed out there are fewer than 172,000 migrant farm workers in the nation today and said the number is rapidly dwindling.

Still another speaker, Mrs. Myrtle Beul, Equal Employment Opportunity officer of the University of Georgia who said she is also a former farm worker, basically supports the revisions but said the "in faith" effort by growers to recruit domestic labor before resorting to aliens should be spelled out.

The Glades sugar industry employed more than half the alien workers imported last year, according to a DOL report read by Ralph Alewine of Atlanta, hiring 8,700 British West Indies laborers to cut the cane, compared to a total of 15,000 aliens imported for all types of agricultural work.

and were released the same day. Blissett was taken to Glades General Hospital where he was treated and released for a broken number of officers throughout the state to handle all forms of wildlife complaints.

"We're hoping," she said, "that by bringing in the extra officers and leaving them in the area for an undetermined period of time, we can convince both sides we have the officers to call on that we'll use them and they'll come back again if they're needed."

Lt. Nancy Butler, information officer for the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission office in West Palm Beach, said Blissett was part of a special detail made up of wildlife officers from all over South Florida.

Mrs. Butler said the detail was assigned, under the direction of Capt. Grady Phelps, to enforce all regulations, as they apply to both commercial and sports fishermen, and to cool the mounting controversy.

"We've been getting complaints from both sides," she said. "Basically, the sports fishermen have been complaining the commercial fishermen have been fishing off limits and the commercial fishermen have been complaining they've been harassed by the sports fishermen."

She acknowledged the recurring complaint that the experimental commercial fishing program which began last October, hasn't been adequately enforced but pointed out the Commission has a limited number of officers throughout the state to handle all forms of wildlife complaints.

"We're hoping," she said, "that by bringing in the extra officers and leaving them in the area for an undetermined period of time, we can convince both sides we have the officers to call on that we'll use them and they'll come back again if they're needed."

Graduates celebrated next week

The annual graduation issue of the Belle Glade Herald and the Everglades Observer will be "bigger and better than ever" this year.

The issue, which will be inserted into the Herald, Observer, and the new Lakeshore Shield, will feature pictures and personal biographies of the seniors of Glades Central, Glades Day, Christian Day, and Pahokee High Schools.

Also contained in the issue are ads from many area merchants and businesses congratulating the seniors upon their pending graduation.

As this is being written, it appears the issue will contain approximately 32 pages.

If you would like to have an ad appear in the issue, you must contact either the Herald or Observer office by noon today (Thursday).

The staff of the Herald, Observer and Shield hope the graduation issue will become a keesakee for all the area's seniors and wish to thank the many school administrators who have been so kind in helping gather the information on the students and their pictures.

Celery growers to vote on new amendment

Celery growers in Florida will vote on an amendment to the federal marketing order regulating the handling of their crop, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, reported Tuesday.

The amendment, based on evidence received at a public hearing, February 1, in Orlando, would:

1. Clarify the method of determining sales bases (A sales base is a producer's share of the market based on the amount of celery he has marketed in the past).

2. Establish a reserve, of sales base quantities to be allocated to new producers and producers with existing bases.

3. Add a public representative to the committee.

4. Add production research authority to the existing marketing research and development authority.

Other minor changes will also be

South Bay OKs resignation

SOUTH BAY—The City Commission decided Tuesday evening to advertise for a new finance director after formally accepting the resignation of A.R. Grigby, which will become effective next Tuesday.

"Finance Director in Charge of Personnel," Grigby reeled off his title "that spells City Manager." Right or wrong, the city commission did not give him the support necessary to function under that title.

Most of the discussion during the workshop was devoted to how to advertise for Grigby's replacement and how much longer Grigby would remain an employee of the city.

It was finally decided the effective date of the resignation should remain May 31 but Grigby should be retained as a special consultant to help administer the construction of the new city hall and the proposed $1.24 million worth of improvement to the city's sewer system.

"What we will be discussing tonight," Grigby told the commissioners, "is a new ball game. Fortunately, our differences are entirely ideological. That is your opinions and mine differ as to form of government."

Commissioner Vernita Cox pointed out however, that even if the city were to retain Grigby, a new finance director would still be needed.

Commissioner Billy Wells agreed, saying he didn't think there is enough room in the city for both positions, although Grigby had offered to stay long enough to orient his replacement.

"You've stated you want to work this out," Mayor Don Tanner said when Grigby made his offer. "Now would be a good time. You've resigned several times and this time we decided to accept it."

While there was some discussion about whether the city should hire a finance director or a combination city manager/finance director, the commission finally settled on a simple finance director, leaving the option of hiring a city manager at a later time.

City Clerk Virginia Walker said she has observed at state meetings of city clerks and finance directors that most cities the size of South Bay don't hire managers but make do with finance directors.

The commissioners, while they couldn't direct the advertisement during a workshop session, decided they would advertise for a new man until June 21 and call a special meeting for June 28 to discuss the application.

According to Gary E. Jones, 1977 Heart Fund campaign chairman, this year's chapter income is expected to reach an all-time high of $505,300 by June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

"Of that," Mrs. Duda added, "$2,347 came from the Glades area Heart Sunday drives and $3,835 from the business drives."

Totals broken down into areas are as follows: $3,962 from Belle Glade; $2,345, Pahokee; $1,513, South Bay; and $165, Lake Harbor.

Also attending the meeting from Belle Glade were Mr. and Mrs. Guy D. Wood, Jr.

The Limited Edition bluegrass tour will be back in Belle Glade at the Ben Franklin shopping plaza this Thursday, Friday and Saturday and, if you can't attend live, they'll also be on WSWN radio. Personal friends of local bluegrass deejay Simon Train, the Limited Edition is composed of four straight and intelligent young men.

The individuals are: Bob Shuler, who plays guitar, banjo, mandolin and lead vocal. Bob was born in West Virginia and has been playing since age five. He played with several bluegrass groups in Tennessee and Florida as well as working as a single act. Bob also worked four years as an engineer with WSM radio and the Grand Ole Opry.

when he isn't spinning records on the turntable.

Besides the music, Train said there is a possibility there will be square dancing in the parking lot by the Kane Kutters, a square dance group from Clewiston, although that has to be confirmed up.

"There'll also be a number of guest musicians coming through to make appearances," he said, "and we'll be broadcasting live remote. I might add, this is all free to the public."

Train said there are a number of recreational vehicle manufacturers who will be represented with models in the parking lot 24 hours a day during the camporee. Among others, Winnebago, Airstream, Sportcoach, Apache, Landau, Dodge, Coachman and Mini Winnie vehicles will be on display, along with salesmen during the daytime hours.

Train said he will also be giving away free merchandise periodically during the three days.

tient.

"Sure, it's contacts in this business," Bob said, "but it's twice as hard in this business because you're catering to a minimum of people who know anything about the music. But we're in this form of music not because we think it's the wave of the future so much but because bluegrass is the best form of music to express what's inside."

The group agrees that it's a music all generations can enjoy, and do. "Older people like bluegrass and country, and younger people like bluegrass and rock. Those that are narrowminded about bluegrass usually are older and in the music profession... there's still a lot of people that believe anyone who plays bluegrass has to be an ignorant, uncultured hick."

—Dave's brother Paul who plays dobro, guitar, and sings bass vocal. Paul's geographic history parallels his brother.

—Rick Thuston, 29, from Hollywood, plays bass and is the newest member of the group.

The group has national ambitions and feel their style is what will make them jump into national prominence if they just are pa-

Students tell how mountains came to be

CANAL POINT—The fourth grade students of Mrs. Frances Adams' class at Canal Point Elementary were assigned a class project to give their explanations of how mountains came to be. The following paragraphs were written by the students, who wished to share their work with you, the readers.

MOUNTAINS

By Virginia Lee Rhoden Age 9
When great reptiles were here they stayed in caves and everywhere and there were rivers and lakes but there was no mountains. Some reptiles were smaller than cats and some were big as whales. Dinosaur Rex was a big reptile. When he walked it sounded like thunder, one time he got mad and stomped. The earth flew into the air and then it came down it was lumpy. It is called the mountains.

THE VALLEY OF AFRICA

By Patty Young Age 10
One day the people in the valley said they were tired of flat land. So one night a man named Orange Face asked the earth for mountains. The earth said no. Then the Green Ape asked the earth and the earth said yes. And when the people of the valley heard that they cheered for joy.

THE GOD OF MOUNTAINS

By Ronnie York Age 11
One time there was a god. God of Rock, a man called the god to give something high to the people. So the god gave him something high, and the man said "What's this?" And the god said, "A Mountain". And the man said, "Make more, more and more and still more."

WHERE DID MOUNTAINS COME FROM?

By Ariene Cassandra Dukes Age 9
Once there was a dinosaur. He was looking for food. There was a soft, piece of land. Well, this dinosaur who was looking for food stepped on it. No dinosaurs on land had stepped on it. That's the way mountains came into the world.

THE GIANTS WHO PLAYED HOP SCOTCH

By Liz Bell Age 10
Long ago two giants were playing and one giant said, "Let's play hop scotch." So the two giants played and when one of the giants jumped the earth rose in some places. And that is how mountains came to be.

MOUNTAIN MAKER

By Kevin J. York Age 9
The great vast ocean had a high tide. It pushed dirt and rocks into great masses. Then Mother Ocean said to the water "go down". Then the dirt dried and formed mountains.

MOUNTAIN MAKER

By Reese Sugars Age 10
Once there was Tyrannosaurus Rex. He was very heavy. One day he slipped in a mud hole and started sinking deeper and deeper. Suddenly the earth burst open. Up sprang mountains!

THE DAY THE QUEEN GOT MAD

By Victoria Lewis Age 10
The Queen of the Earth got mad with the earth. So she got a hammer and beat it. Some knots came up. So she said, "I will call them mountains."

HOW DID MOUNTAINS COME TO BE?

By Carl Bess Age 10
Long time ago, there was a dinosaur, who had prayed to the God to bring a mountain to this earth. And one day the dinosaurs wondered would the God bring a mountain. Then one morning he woke and he saw a big beautiful mountain. The dinosaurs were happy and that's the end.

MOUNTAIN

By Tyrone Holmes Age 10
They became mountains when Mother Earth said, I am tired she laid down to rest. Part of the earth was high in air and the rest was called land masses.

Commission stops traffic

Due to the threat of wildfire, vehicular traffic will be prohibited in Conservation Area III, north of Alligator Alley, by emergency order of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

Major Louis F. Gainey, Everglades Regional Manager, said the closing order will take effect at midnight, Friday, May 6, and will prohibit all motorized vehicles, with the exception of motorboats in the canals, from entering the area.

The order is aimed at reducing the threat of wildfire in the everglades habitat during the dry season. A recent fire in the area consumed 3,000 acres of habitat before being brought under control.

Wildlife officers of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission will enforce the temporary restrictions until the fire danger is reduced by the anticipated summer rainy season.

Mrs. Willie Mae Adams honored

BELLE GLADE—A local school teacher has been named recently to the Marquis Who's Who of American Women publication for 1977.

Mrs. Willie Mae White-Adams, a teacher at Gladeview Elementary School for the past ten years, was honored by the publication, headquartered in Chicago.

Mrs. White has spent almost all her life in the Glades, coming here with her parents at an early age. She is a 1950 graduate of the old Everglades Vocational High School in Okeechobee Center and she attended Florida A&M for one year before discontinuing her education for eight years to care for her family.

She was married to the late Samuel White Sr. of the Glades area and they managed White's Grocery Store on Sixth Street from 1945 to 1955. Mrs. White operated the store during the three years after her husband's death but she finally decided to continue her education, returning to Florida A&M in 1958 where she was graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree during the 1960-61 school year.

She taught the second grade at East Lake Elementary School in Pahokee for the four years following her graduation before transferring to Gladeview.

She has been employed by the Palm Beach County School Board for 16 years and she is affiliated with the Palm Beach County Classroom Teachers Association, the Florida State Teachers Association and the National Education Association.

She is a member of St. John's First Baptist Church and has served as president of the Willing Workers Club for 16 years. She also teaches an adult ladies class in Sunday School.

She is counselor of the Youth Department of the Greater South Florida Baptist Association. She is the first president of the City Association of Clubs-Belle Glade with four years tenure, ending last year. She is one of the founders of the association.

She was first woman to serve on the board of directors of Progressive Citizens, Inc. and served as secretary for ten years. She served on the board of directors of the Sunset Nursing Home for a number of years.

Mrs. White served as public relations person for the Florida Federation of Women and Girls Clubs, Inc. from 1972 to 1976. She is founder of the LaChic Mesdames Social Club and serves as second vice president at this time. She is affiliated with the Women's Civic Club.

She was named one of the Outstanding Teachers of America in 1973 and honored by the Florida A&M University Alumni Association of Palm Beach County for Outstanding Achievement in 1974 and by the Florida Association of Women and Girls Clubs, Inc. for Outstanding Club Work in 1976.

Mrs. White has studied at the University of Colorado in Boulder, Col., at the University of Rhode Island and at Florida Atlantic University.

She was recently married to the Rev. J. B. Adams, minister of St. John's Baptist Church in Belle Glade.

Marquis Who's Who of American Women is published to honor "individuals who have demonstrated outstanding achievement in their own fields of endeavor and who have, thereby, contributed significantly to the betterment of contemporary society."

No one knows his name

He's been in radio for 10 years now as Edwin Ray Hastings, and he is the Country personality in the Glades, but nobody knows his name.

That's because in radio, one uses a pseudonym, and Ed Hastings is SIMON TRAIN...the Easy-going bluegrass promoter of Belle Glade's 18 county voice...WSWN.

This Saturday has been designated Simon Train Day by the Belle Glade and Pahokee city councils and in the Ben Franklin Shopping Center at the Camp-O-Ree, he'll be broadcasting live Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Train's chug-chug started in southeastern Missouri, where he attended school. He taught for a while in Atlanta at the Career Academy of Broadcasting there and worked at WQXY — a top notch rock station.

But his life got too busy, says his pretty wife, Geni Barwick, and he moved to Palm Beach County where he worked both WSWN and a station on the coast.

Maybe it was Geni that made up his mind, but since 1971 Simon Train has been Belle Glade's own.

He's got his future sights pegged on increasing his activity in bluegrass and recording promotions and working at the radio station.

Meanwhile, the Hastings family, which now includes two-and-a-half-year-old Edwin Rae Hastings II and seven-month-old Paul Barwick Hastings, are enjoying daddy's bask in the sun Saturday.
